Willerby Carr Lane Primary School - History Topic: The Seaside Year: 1 Strand: Changes within living memory

What should I already know? Where the seaside is located and the human and physical features I would find there. That nothing stays the same; things change with time.

What will I know by the end of the unit?
How do holidays nowadays differ from those which your grandparents or great grandparents had?	 Words and phrases relating to the passing of time eg now, then, past, present, future when talking about seaside holidays. Holidays were focused in the UK and many people who worked in factories took their holiday at the same time hence the saying 'factory fortnight' Many people visited seaside resorts and these became popular as it was believed the fresh air would be beneficial to health and many had a spa's. Entertainment was focused around the beach area (Punch and Judy, sandcastles, deck chairs for relaxing, bathing machines) Clothing differed in the past (invention of sun cream changed this)
How do people travel on holiday nowadays? How did they travel to the seaside in Victorian times?	 In Victorian times people travelled to the seaside by steam train. The key form of travel once there was to walk; hence entertainment was focused within the key areas of the resort. There are a range of different holidays nowadays (at home and abroad) Nowadays, travel often involves planes, trains, cars and coaches.
